PGE PARK

After a $38.5 million renovation before the 2001 season, PGE Park is home to professional soccer's Portland Timbers. The stadium was originally built in 1926 and has undergone a number of transformations over the years. Since reopening after the 2001 renovation, PGE Park has played host to a wealth of large-scale special events, putting the stadium on the map as one of the premiere venues in the United Soccer Leagues. In September 2010, PGE Park will undergo another renovation which will transform the multi-use facility into a stadium optimized for soccer in preparation for the Timbers' inaugural Major League Soccer season in 2011. Once completed, PGE park will blend an old-time, downtown charm with modern amenities, making it one of the most authentic soccer venues in the country. Previous names for PGE Park are Multnomah Stadium and Civic Stadium.

TEAM BIO

The city of Baton Rouge received its first soccer franchise in the PDL in 2007, under the leadership of Bo Cassidy, a veteran coach and collegiate player. The Capitals finished their inaugural season in sixth place in the standings, 15 points behind divisional champions Laredo Heat. For the 2008 season, the Capitals eventually finished the year fifth in the Mid South Division, nine points adrift of divisional champions Austin Aztex U-23. In the 2009 season, Baton Rouge finished fifth with 16 points from 16 games led by coach Paulo Neto, despite having the third-best scoring record in the Southeast Division and drawing twice against their local rivals, the New Orleans Jesters. In the fall of 2009 the club was acquired by new owner, Dr. John Hamide. Defender Stuart Hayers was announced as Head Coach in January 20, 2010.

qualifying task competing amongst 60 teams for eight berths in the tournament, where they will then face opponents from the United States' three professional leagues. The PDL teams who advance to the tournament each year show their class and capabilities to compete on the highest level, posting five victories over USL Second Division clubs along with four wins and two draws against USL First Division teams in the past four editions. PDL clubs have also registered two wins and two draws all-time against Major League Soccer opposition.

WHAT IS PDL?

The top U23 men's league in North America, the USL Premier Development League (PDL) features 67 teams within four conferences across the United States and Canada. The PDL season consists of 16 regular season matches for each team, 8 home and 8 away. Elite players have the ability to participate in the PDL throughout the summer months in a highly competitive setting while maintaining their collegiate eligibility. In addition to league play, PDL teams compete in the Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup as well as various exhibitions. The USL PDL has proven to be the source of many top players now playing their trade in USL-1, USL-2 and various leagues throughout the world.

PLAYER ADVANCEMENT

The PDL has long been a leading developer of talent for the professional ranks. Each year many top PDL players advance to USL First Division and Second Division teams following trials in preseason camps. More than half of the 60 players taken in 2009 MLS Super Draft were PDL players. Club affiliations, domestic and international, have expanded the reach of PDL players further enhancing the PDL's reputation as the North American hotbed of talent and rising stars.

CUP COMPETITION

The Lamar Hunt U.S. Open Cup has been a staple of competition for American based USL clubs. For PDL clubs, the tournament is the ultimate challenge as they face during

PROFESSIONAL PLAY

Although the majority of teams in the PDL are amateur, in the recent past franchises have launched professional teams in the PDL, creating a complete professional environment for players aspiring for the higher levels of the game. This, in turn, allows the amateur players on opposing teams to gain further experience during league play and maintain their eligibility per collegiate regulations that permit players on amateur teams to compete against professionals as long as they are not on teams that have paid professionals.
